Selectmen Divided But Reject Brookside Estates Proposal

By Lewis C. Howe

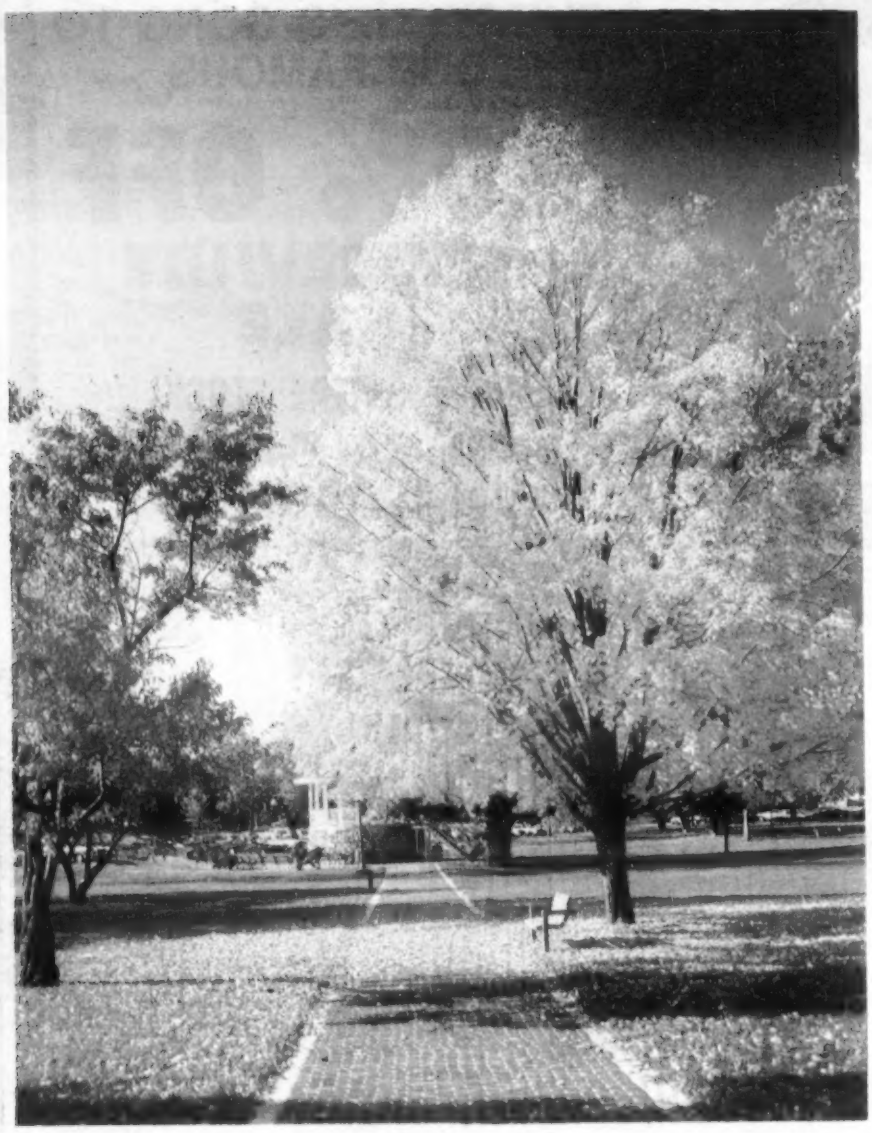

A divided Board of Selectmen voted Monday night not to forward to the state a recommendation by the Andover Housing Partnership Committee (AHPC) that the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) fund Winn Development's Brookside Estates comprehensive permit proposal.

The AHPC last week granted conditional approval for the mixed-income housing project, contingent upon the developer's agreement to scale down the number of units to no more than 150. Winn has proposed 190 units for the 36.4-acre site off North St., with about 25 percent of the housing being considered "affordable."

Selectmen Chairman Gerald Silverman read the AHPC's recommendation to the board, and asked for a motion to send the committee's letter of approval to the state. In the letter, AHPC Chairman Carl Byers stated the committee will work to "bring the developer and residents together" to negotiate the final plans. If the developer refuses to alter the project to eliminate at least 40 units, Silverman said, the AHPC's recommendation is rescinded.

Selectman William Dalton said he could not vote to forward the funding letter to the MHFA because implied approval of 150 units would "undercut" the town Zoning Board of Appeals, which has stated a preference for 134 units at

Park Street Project Referred To Planners

By Lewis C. Howe

Park Street Development Trust will have to negotiate with the planning board if the group wants to continue with plans to renovate the old Andover Lanes Bowling Alley for use as retail space.

The Zoning Board of Appeals chose to uphold a ruling by Sam DeSalvo, Building Inspector, that Park Street's proposal constitutes a "change of use" for the site, which under town bylaws requires the developer to provide ample off-street parking for the facility.

At a Tuesday deliberation session, ZBA member Jane Griswold relayed the results of a discussion between ZBA Chairman Wes Whitney and town attorney, Robert Zollner, on the change of use issue. Both men examined the zoning regulations, Griswold told board members, and found "the bylaw says there are several "uses" allowed in a general business district."

Park Street, Griswold continued, has proposed to use the Andover Lanes property as "an establishment for retail sale of merchandise." The developer has contended that since the bowling alley contained a "pro shop" and snack bar, the site was already being used for this purpose, and no "change of use" restrictions apply.

Park Street Trust appealed to the ZBA earlier this month to overrule Desalvo's ruling that the sale of merchandise was not the facility's primary use.

"There are 50 different 'uses' defined in the bylaw," Griswold noted. "Use number 18 refers to 'an establishment involving assembly of people for indoor recreation...or sporting activity.' That's clearly a bowling alley," she commented.

Under the bylaw, Griswold stated, "Park Street is asking for a change of

by Jack Resnick

Childbirth with a minimum of medication is better for you and the baby; it enables you to remain fully conscious for this one-of-a kind experience. One of the most popular methods today is the Lamaze Methos of Prepared Childbirth. Originating in the Soviet Union it was refined by a French obstetrician, Dr. Ferdinand Lamaze, and has become widespread in the U. S. during the past 15 years. The phrase "prepared childbirth" rather than "natural childbirth" is preferred so that mothers will not get the idea they cannot have medication if they require or wish it. If the techniques are followed, however, medication frequently is not needed. Discomfort is overcome by breathing, relaxation, and dissassociation techniques.

Lecture

Robert McFarlane, former member of the National Security Council and advisor to President Reagan, will give the third lecture in Salem State College's Public Policy Institute Forum on "U.S. Policy in Latin America and the Caribbean in Perspective" on Tuesday, Oct. 27, at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium, Lafayette St., Salem.

McFarlane, involved in White House policy making since 1973, resigned from the Security Council in 1985 after losing a bureaucratic turf battle to White House chief of staff Donald Regan. During his tenure as an advisor, he was responsible for helping the President determine crucial policy decisions, both domestic and international. Because of his involvement in decisions pertinent to the Iran-Contra affair, McFarlane became one of the key players in this summer's Congressional investigation of the covert arms deal.

Woodworking Series To Begin

By Virginia Lopez Begg

The Andover Historical Society begins another series of classes in traditional woodworking on November 7. The local museum also introduces new Saturday open hours on that date.

John Ross, a North Bennett Street graduate with 20 years of teaching experience, will lead the woodworking classes in a series every Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The first four-week workshop concludes November 29.

Individualized instruction is geared to novice and amateur. Students will have access to more than 400 antique tools as well as Ross' extensive collection of books about traditional woodworking. The course is open to the public.

Ross will discuss tool sharpening and reconditioning, marking and layout, traditional joinery and modern applications. He encourages students to bring their own tools and projects for assistance. Classes will take place in the Andover Historical Society's replica 19th-century shop in the Barn Museum behind the Amos Blanchard House on Main Street.

The society introduces new Saturday hours for the house museum and the Underhill Research Library. Both will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. House guides and libary assistants will be available at those times.

The library is a modern facility which contains books, maps, photographs and other material relating to local history. Researchers, amateur or professional, can investigate topics of local interest like schools, businesses, geneology or architecture.

Just a few steps away, the Amos Blanchard House illustrates Andover life in the 1820s, '30s and '40s when the Blanchard family lived here. The guided tour shows the society's fine collection of local antiques but emphasizes a way of life and the people who lived it in that early period.

The society hopes is new Saturday hours will encourage residents to explore its offerings. Accredited by the American Association of Museums, the society is a non-profit, educational institution open to members and the public. For information, call or visit the office Monday through Friday between 9 a.m.. and 5 p.m.

LWV Sponsors Discussion On Gifted And Talented

If the earth were made of ice, the heat from the sun would melt it in 14,981 years.

The public is invited to a discussion on "Rethinking the Andover Gifted and Talented Program" with Shirley Perkins, educational consultant to the school department, on Thursday, Oct. 29, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Carol Couture, off Dascomb Road. This is the first activity sponsored by the education committee of Andover's League of Women Voters this year. For more information, call education chairman Marjie Dennis, 18 Orchard Crossing.

"I'm in the process of just listening to the concerns of teachers, parents and citizens at this point, hearing what they want to see happening for gifted children in the Andover schools," Perkins said, "so this League of Women Voters education seminar comes at a good time." Perkins, a free-lance consultant with school districts on gifted and talented programs, is contracted to work with Andover from September 15 to January 15. A former teacher with the gifted, she was previously a state education department consultant in Iowa and Florida, where she lives in Tampa.

The next meetings of the education committee are Thursday, Nov. 12, and Monday, Dec. 14, at 9:15 a.m. at 18 Orchard Crossing, off South Main Street. Topics will include the Collaborative School (Andover-Lawrence), the school budget process and the Masterplan now being drafted for Andover schools. Mrs. Dennis urges anyone interested in Andover education and these topics to attend the meetings and to join the LWV and its education committee.

The LWV agriculture committee will meet Monday, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m. at the home of San Crandall, 1 Bancroft Road. For more information, call Betsey Cullen, 74 Bartlet St., evenings. The League of Women Voters' purpose is to promote political responsibility through citizen participation in government. Anyone eligible to vote is eligible for membership in the LWV at the local, state and national level.

WHO, WHAT, WHEN, WHERE, WHY,

Be A Part Of Recycling

By Virginia H. Cole

I guess it is time for the citizens of Andover to tell the recycling committee or the town manager or the selectmen what we can do to make recycling more effective. We have a good program, easy as such programs go, with curb side pick up and faithful recyclers. But we don't increase the number of these people very much from year to year; not even as much as the town expands.

Why? Why don't you tell me. Write or call any of those mentioned above; I imagine even the TOWNSMAN would forward letters to me or maybe even print a few.

You all know there is a problem nation-wide with trash disposal. Maybe you don't know what it costs Andover. The cost this year to collect trash and take it to North Andover's incinerator is $385,525. We then pay an additional $63 per ton to have it dumped (that's called the tipping fee). At 13,200 tons per year, your cost is $831,600 for trash disposal.

Recycling saves the $63 per ton dumping fee and probably figures into the collection bid when a company knows some part of the trash is being regularly removed from the waste stream.

In these days of citizen input, I'd like to hear why you don't recycle. I have answers for the arguments that it's too much bother; that it isn't worth it; that you don't believe we really recycle. If those are your reasons, send them along with all the ones I haven't thought of.

If you would like to take part in an active committee working on these problems, there is room for that, too. We are a non-profit corporation, not a town board. We are not subject to the open meeting law; no one has suggested televising our monthly meetings and, so far, we have not even been attacked by the League of Women Voters. Anyone is welcome to come to the meetings, to observe, take part or join the board of directors. We have no bylaws limiting our membership to sex, color, creed or age. We don't even have a bylaw saying you have to favor recycling. Maybe there is a better way to get rid of our trash.

Call me, Virginia Cole, call the town offices; someone can find us and you can be a part of this effort to improve your environment for now and the future and save money too.

The lee, or sheltered side of a ship, comes from an Anglo-Saxon word referring to the side of a shed that was out of the wind where a laborer would take his lunch.

West Junior High parents reenacted a simulated day in their children's schedules. Each "class" was 15 minutes, during which the teachers explained the coursework and the progress of the students. Principal William Hart greeted the parents at the door.

Members of the school's yearbook staff and of the West chapter of Students Against Drunk Drivers, were also on hand to promote their organizations.

Sanborn Student Creates Character For Spooky Fair

The Sanborn Elementary School PTO is honoring student Greg Maguire, a fifth grader, for his creation of the "Sanborn Spook" to represent the school's Spooky Fun Fair '87. The fair will be held Friday, Oct. 30, from 5-9 p.m.

A gift certificate for the fair was presented to Greg by Faye Pierce, Sanborn PTO president. Greg's drawing was chosen out of more than 110 submissions.

The Spooky Fun Fair is an annual event for the family to celebrate Halloween. There are games of skill for all ages, plenty to eat and drink, face painting, crafts tables, balloons and prizes for everyone.

For smaller children, Casperland is sure to please. And to stun, terrorize and surprise, don't miss the haunted house.

Proceeds from the fair will go to the Sanborn Student Activities Fund.

All are invited to come in costume, but the PTO requests that no masks be worn.

Bon Secours Hospital, 70 East St., Methuen, seeks volunteers to transport patients for the physical therapy department Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Kids Raise Money For UNICEF

What started as a rainy day game turned into a major event for the children of one West Andover neighborhood last Sunday. Five girls were having so much fun playing haunted house they decided to sell tickets. Approximately 70 children and a few adults paid their admission for a tour that included free refreshments.

Tour guides were Meredith Rose, 11, disguised as a witch, and Carly Detterman, dressed as a smiling pumpkin. Witches Robin Detterman and Kathryn Rose, both eight-years-old, were waiting inside. Ghostly greeter and ticket taker Janny Detterman, 5, passed out goodies.

More than $20 was raised for UNICEF.

"The name Arlington Trust Company means peace of mind for us."

The Louis Tisbert family has been banking with Arlington Trust Company for over 35 years, so it was only natural that they came to us for financial backing when they started L. Tisbert Masonry Inc. 27 years ago.

"The name Arlington Trust Company means peace of mind for us," says Claire Tisbert. "Whenever the emergencies come, they're always there to see us through. It gives us a real sense of security to know that if a check we're counting on doesn't come in and we have 30 or 40 men waiting to be paid, we can pick up the phone and call Don Schroeder at the bank and he'll have the payroll money waiting for us with Eileen Zuppardi at the Shawsheen branch."

Arlington Trust Company has been serving the banking needs of Greater Lawrence since we opened our first office on Essex Street nearly 100 years ago. Today, with 21 full-service offices located throughout northeastern Massachusetts, there's one in a neighborhood near you.

New ULowell Department

The University of Lowell has set a national precedent with the establishment of a new department within its College of Engineering, devoted to the study of the relationship between technology and the work environment it creates.

Headed by Dr. David Wegman, an internationally-known expert in epidemiology, the new work environment department will focus on the study of worker safety and health in an increasingly technical society. The faculty also includes Charles Levenstein, a specialist in occupational health law and policy, Michael Ellenbecker, an industrial hygiene specialist, and Laura Punnett, an epidemiologist.

No other school in the United States offers work environment as a separate degree program with its own department status. The majority of acadmic occupational health programs are located in schools of public health or in schools of medicine with attention focused on the exposure to chemical and physical hazards in the workplace, but not on the control of those hazards. By instituting work environment studies as a department of the College of Engineering at ULowell, attention will be additionally focused on finding engineering solutions to threats to worker health and safety.

In its research and educational programs, the department will concentrate on three activities: the identification and measurement of occupational hazards, the engineering control of such hazards and the assessment of the social, economic and political implications of technology in the workplace.

Members of the work environment faculty and graduate research assistants will pursue lab-based and extensive field research projects. Educational efforts will focus on graduate programs. By next year, the department expects to offer a master's degree in work environment and within two years offer a doctorate in the field.

High interest rates have made home ownership an impossible dream for many. Now the new fixed-rate SMART MORTGAGE can once again put home ownership within your reach.

With this revolutionary new mortgage you can cut your total interest payment almost in half simply by changing the way you make your mortgage payments. All you do is accelerate your payment schedule.

Instead of one payment a month, you'll split your monthly payment in half and pay it every two weeks. And since there are 52 weeks in a year, you will end up making an extra monthly payment each year. This drastically lowers the amount you owe, reduces the interest you pay and builds your equity faster.

Own your own home sooner. The smart way.
By paying half of your monthly payment every two weeks, you hasten the day when you can burn your mortgage. With a SMART MORTGAGE you may own your own home free and clear in approximately 20 years instead of 30. (Your mortgage payoff date will vary with the rate of interest you pay. With a lower interest rate your payoff term will be longer.)

The smart way to pay.
The SMART MORTGAGE saves you time as well as money. Because it eliminates paperwork. You pay your mortgage the smart way through a regular checking account at our bank. Every two weeks, your mortgage payment will be deducted automatically. That will save you a lot of check writing. And stamp licking.

Get smart.
If you're buying a home today, be sure to ask about the SMART MORTGAGE.

This is just one more way we help enrich your life through the intelligent use of money.

Spiritual Program For Cancer Patients Established

The Ristuccia Foundation, Andover, has announced the establishment of a spiritual program for cancer patients, families and professional caregivers.

The Ristuccia Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing support services to cancer patients and their families in the Merrimack Valley. The staff are licensed clinical social workers who are available to assist patients and families to identify and resolve problems that occur at all stages of their illness.

The diagnosis of cancer impacts on the whole fiber of a person's life; medical, emotional and spiritual. For many individuals, spiritual concerns emerge with their cancer diagnosis. Thus, the foundation is sponsoring a series of ecumenical retreats to support individuals as they strive to cope. In addition, the foundation has a commitment to providing training, support and consultation to professionals working in oncology. One way the foundation can support professionals is to provide an opportunity for them to rest, pray and refresh their spirit.

Retreats for patients and caregivers are planned.

The retreats for cancer patients are Saturday, Oct. 31, "Drawing from the Well," from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Lowell General Hospital, Lowell, and Saturday, Nov. 7, "Peace in the Middle of the Panic," at Bon Secours Hospital, Methuen, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Retreats for caregivers are Friday, Oct. 30, "Reflections on the Road," at Lowell General Hospital, Lowell, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. and Rriday, Nov. 6, "Hope for the Journey," at Bon Secours Hospital, Methuen, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

There is no fee and individuals may register at the door.

There will be a six-week spiritual support group, Companions on the Road, on Wednesdays from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., beginning November 4 at the Salvatoria Center, Methuen. There is a fee for this group and pre-registration is required. For more information, call the Ristuccia Foundation in Andover.

Business Workshops Scheduled

A two-evening workshop, "Business Connections: Making Them, Keeping Them," is scheduled for Thursdays, Nov. 5 and 12, from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the Andover Campus of Northern Essex Community College, located at Greater Lawrence Technical School, River Road.

The workshop is designed to help business people develop an informal plan for cultivating business contacts to promote their business, manage their career or pursue other personal goals.

"Most people realize contacts are important," says instructor October Clarke Graham, a marketing consultant who specializes in marketing ideas for small and medium-size businesses, "but very few actually think of them as a marketing tool that should be included in their marketing or career development plans. This workshop gives people an opportunity to create a specific plan for developing business contacts that will help them achieve their goals."

Those interested in the course should contact the continuing education division, Northern Essex Community College, Haverhill Campus.

Kitchen Design

by David A. Clement, Designer

A fundamental decision in choosing a range is whether to select a built-in oven with cook top, or a free-standing unit. Because the oven is used less often than the cooktop, its placement in the work center is less critical. The built-in cooktop is often used in a pass-through or island design. An important advantage to any built-in unit is that it can be located at a height most suitable for you. Free-standing units are best if you plan to move often. They may also well be the best answer to a space problem since they can be installed between cabinets.

Designing a kitchen is as individual as you are. If your family has left the nest your needs are different from that of a family with young children.

WINDSOR KITCHENS takes these facts into consideration when we offer you cabinets, counters and appliances. You receive a total package that is coordinated and meets your requirements including your budget. Plan now to have a new "holiday" kitchen. Come in to 1181 Boston Rd., Ward Hill. We're here Wed. 9-8; Thursday 9 to 5:30; Friday 9 to 5:30; Saturday 10 to 2; Sun., Mon., Tues. closed or by appointment. Tel 372-3444

Choose a simple IRA now, and save the hard decisions for later.

Investing for retirement should be easy, profitable, and flexible. And that's why you should look into the new 3-year IRA from Wakefield Savings Bank.

Once you've gotten started, you can add to it whenever you like. You can even consolidate other IRA's into it. (We'll be happy to transfer IRA's from other institutions into it for you.) And the interest it pays will always be ¼% over the 3-year U.S. Treasury rate, adjusted each month. That way, no matter what happens to interest rates, you'll always be earning a competitive yield.

So make planning for retirement as simple as it can be with a 3-year variable rate IRA from Wakefield Savings Bank. It's the kind of investment that could leave you in an enviable position.

Group Seeks To Help Adult Retarded

Many mentally retarded adults lead productive lives, contributing to society in their own way. Due to emotional, physical and social problems, they sometimes require assistance in their daily lives, especially when it involves planning for the future.

The future can be especially uncertain for those retarded adults who have enjoyed a life at home with their parents rather than in state residences. As parents age, additional support is often needed to help better deal with the needs of their retarded children. Since the state can provide for only a fraction of those people who need services, many retarded people who have never lived in state programs are left without residential opportunities, resulting in anguish and anxiety for parents and family.

Helping these families find residential alternatives for loved ones is where Creative Living, Inc, comes in. A private, non-profit organization, Creative Living, Inc. seeks to establish innovative residential programs for retarded adults in Greater Lawrence. This community group, comprised of parents, relatives, professionals and other interested individuals, strives to ensure that mentally retarded sons and daughters who have always lived with their families will be guaranteed a home when their parents or family can no longer care for them.

Secure homes are the foundation of the future for retarded adults. While living in these homes, these adults will be able to continue to maximize their potential, develop skills and contribute to the community while living happily and securely in familiar surroundings.

To further their goals, Creative Living, Inc. will host several fundraising events.

One fundraiser that helps support the group's goals is a retail store, Classic Threads, 447 Essex St., Lawrence. Classic Threads, operated entirely by community volunteers, offers new, quality merchandise at discounted prices. The women's, men's and children's clothing are first quality overruns, closeouts and job lots, many

Named Sanders Vice President

Joseph F. Trepanier

The appointment of John R. Kreick to the position of president of Sanders Associates, Inc. to succeed Albert B. Wight who plans to retire effective January 1, has been announced by the board of directors of Lockheed Corporation. Dr. Kreick was also appointed a vice president of Lockheed Corporation by the board.

Wight, 66, has served as president and chief operating officer of Sanders Associates, Inc. since 1982 and as a member of Sanders Board of Directors from 1970 until the acquisition of Sanders by Lockheed in August 1986. He continued as president of Sanders and was elected a vice president of Lockheed in October 1986.

Joseph F. Trepanier, presently serving as vice president of Air Force product line, was named to succeed Krieck as vice president and general manager of Sanders Countermeasures Division.

Krieck was vice president and general manager of Sanders Countermeasures Division since June 1985. He joined Sanders in 1969 as a research physicist and led the team that developed two novel infrared countermeasures systems that have since become the basis for the company's IRCM programs for helicopters and fixed wing aircraft.

Kreick has been a director of Harbor Homes, a transitional housing program in Nashua. He lives with his wife, Carol, and three sons in Nashua.

Trepanier joined Sanders in 1967 as a design engineer in the former electronic warfare division and later served as engineering manager and program manager for various electronic countermeasures programs. He played a key role in the development of the electronic countermeasures systems installed on the U.S. Air Force's F/FB-111 fighter bomber force and the EF-111 advanced electronic warfare aircraft.

A native of Lawrence, Trepanier received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Lowell Technological Institute and earned a master's degree in the same discipline from Northeastern University. He resides in Andover with his wife, Ruth, and three children.

Doucette gave a summary of the secondary school parents' committee which will focus on the broad issues facing all the secondary schools.

THE
DESIGN

Part III

THE DESIGN PROCESS

The design process should begin with an in-depth consultation to establish your needs and preferences. You may be specific or leave everything up to the designer. The property should be walked and any major landscape projects discussed. Establishing a budget and a division of phases is helpful at this point.

Your property will then be carefully evaluated and measured. These measurements along with your plot plan are used to accurately scale your home, property lines and other features of the project.

Next, a preliminary presentation is scheduled; the most important meeting. The entire design is presented. Pictures of the plant material are shown, and details are reviewed and discussed. Estimated costs of each phase are also presented at this time. The goal of this meeting is to establish a landscape plan that you are comfortable with and that meets all your needs.

After necessary changes are made, the preliminary plan is then drafted into a final. Blueprints are made and delivered to you at a final presentation.

The plan should be easy to understand. Each plant should be keyed to a plant list that lists at least the common names, sizes at installation and the total quantity of each type of plant. The plants should be drawn to mature sizes to insure proper spacing and show the ultimate effect of the mature landscape.

Do you remember which closet you stored the leftover yarn from your last afghan, sweater or baby booties? If you do, perhaps you'd like to donate it to the Andover Senior Center. Our ladies are working on items for a holiday fair and your yarn or other leftover craft supplies can be used for a good cause. Your items can be dropped off at the senior center Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Call 470-3830 for further information.

Harvesting

Harvesting is underway for those crisp and crunchy carrots, parsnips and turnips available at roadside farm stands, farmers' markets and local supermarkets.

The New England climate is well suited to the cultivation of parsnips. They are planted in the spring and harvested after the first frost in the fall as well as during the winter or early the next spring.

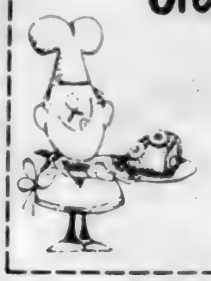

Parsnips require a long, cool growing season, as they are strictly a winter vegetable. Their flavor is not fully developed until it has been exposed to a temperature near freezing. At low temperatures, starch gradually changes to sugar. When properly cooked, parsnips have a sweet, nutty flavor.

Turnips, members of the mustard family, grow well in rich, well cultivaed soil with continuous moisture.

Stamp Show

New England's largest and most outstanding stamp show will be held November 7-8 at the Ramada Hotel in Woburn. More than 50 of the east's leading stamp dealers will participate as well as local and national dtamp organizations and the United States Postal Service.

Philharmonic To Open Season

The first concert of the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Orchestra's 1987-88 season will take place in the the French Gothic-style Roman Catholic Church of the Sacred Heart, 321 S. Broadway (Route 28) Lawrence, Sunday, Nov. 8 at 2:30 p.m. Under the direction of conductor George Monseur, the orchestra will perform Haydn's Paris Symphony No. 82 in C, often called "The Bear," and Symphony No. 4 by Johannes Brahms.

Numbering more than 70 players, the orchestra's 1987-88 repetoire offers a wide variety of musical enjoyment for all ages. Future concerts will feature Rachmaninoff's First Piano Concerto, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony, Strauss' Four Last Songs, Mahler's Titan Symphony and the Brahms' Requiem. They will also present their annual Christmas concert and children's concert.

The stained glass-filled colors of Sacred Heart Church will provide a visual display for the joyful Paris Symphony No. 82. Revered by all of the musicians of his day, Haydn enjoyed the life of patronage. The city of Paris commissioned No. 82, along with three others. Composed when he was 52 years old, the "Bear" is a superb example of classical-period symphonic writing.

Historians consider Haydn the father of the Classical Period. The last vestige of the period is Johannes Brahms—a classical writer in the Romantic era. He did not write his first symphony until he was 43, and Symphony No. 4 was composed eight years later.

First performed in 1885, it was again heard in 1897 at which time Brahms was in attendance. It would be the last concert he would ever hear before his death. Like so much of Brahms, it is filled with soaring melodies and harmonies. The closing movement, with its solemn climax featuring the trombones, should be a thrilling experience in the vastness of the Sacred Heart Church nave.

The concert is being sponsored, in part, by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, the Lawrence Arts Lottery Council, A.T.&T. Networks Division, The Lawrence Eagle Tribune and the Webster Foundation.

West Parish's Hires Its First Christian Education Minister

By Melissa M. De Meo

A lot is going on in Linda Knight's life right now. She is raising two sons. She just got a graduate degree—and a new job. And she may be ordained soon.

Knight, 45, minister of Christian education at West Parish Church, fresh out of Boston University School of Theology, said she hopes to be ordained as a Congregational minister by next year. The required ordination interview with a committee from the United Church of Christ is set for next month. After that, it's a matter of waiting.

It's a wait Knight won't mind. She said she's very happy with her West Parish post, which she started Sept. 1.

"I really love this job," she said. "I like the people—everyone's been friendly and welcoming."

Christian education at West Parish takes many different shapes, and Knight likes the diversity. She oversees the Sunday School, the Pilgrim Fellowship youth group and the women's bible study group.

"I think they've let this job have a lot of responsibility and a lot of variety," Knight said. "I get to deal with all ages, all lifestyles. I like the way people have allowed met that freedom. I like to be able to do so many things in my job."

West Parish's interim senior minister, the Rev. Roger Daly, said Knight shows an enthusiasm for her work. "She's interested, excitable," Daly said. "She likes things. She's responsive to the things around her."

Minister of Christian education is a new position at West Parish this year. Knight has taken over some of the responsibilities of the church's former associate minister, Dirkye Legerstee, who resigned in June.

Knight sometimes preaches in the church's Sanctuary and conducts services for the Pilgrim Fellowship members and for children of the congregation. But to be a minister—and to be able to serve communion—Knight has first to be ordained.

She didn't really have any intention of going into the ministry. She grew up in a Congregational household in Springfield, Vt. and describes herself then as a "sort of nature mystic," but said she didn't think people would remember her as being particularly religious.

That all changed one day in February, 1981 shortly after her divorce. She was running a daycare center out of her home when "I remember being totally overwhelmed and kneeling on the living room floor asking God for help."

Knight had been working as a lay minister at Massachusetts General Hospital. When people there asked her if she was going to become a hospital chaplain, she said her response was always: "Who me?"

Linda Knight

Knight started taking one theological class at BU. "I went to BU not having any clear-cut goals, but saying I was interested." That was the fall of 1983, and Knight enjoyed the course so much, she kept adding more and more until she was a full-time student last semester.

"I worked hard," she said simply.

Knight said her children aren't fazed by their mother's work and goals. "The boys accept it as this is what I'm doing," Knight said. "We come together at night. So far it's been possible to balance everything, but I've been very busy.

Before she came to West Parish, Knight was director of Christian education at North Beverly Second Congregational Church to fulfill BU's field education requirements. After Knight received her degree, West Parish heard she was looking for a job through the New England Conference of the United Church of Christ.

Knight, who lives in Lexington, came to West Parish for an interview and got the job.

She works at the church four days a week and during assorted church events. On Thursday mornings, her women's bible study group meets.

"I'm new to the group, but from the first day I felt at home," she said. "We bonded together more quickly than I could expect."

The Pilgrim Fellowship meets every Tuesday evening for dinner and a short service. Knight said she chaperoned eight PFers to a dance on a recent Saturday—her only free day. She said she was surprised to find that she herself had a good time.

"It was wonderful. Other than the loud music, I totally enjoyed myself," she said. "I

Videos

The National Center for Urban Ethnic Affairs will present two video productions portraying aspects of ethnicity and urban life at the Lowell National and State Parks Visitor Center, 246 Market St., Friday, Oct. 30, at 8 p.m.

Both productions describe life in urban ethnic neighborhoods in Baltimore, Md., and South Bend, Ind. The Baltimore video, "The Great American Neighborhood Road Show," uses oral histories as a script for professional actors. The South Bend show, "Festivals are More than Food and Fun," used taped interviews of group leaders and storytellers to provide a self-interpretation of civil life and ethnic culture.

Following the videotapes, National Center for Urban Ethnic Affairs Director John A. Kromkowski and Professor Ted Radzilowski of Southwestern University in Minnesota, will discuss the issues raised by the videotapes and of other National Center for Urban Ethnic Affairs programs.

The organization concerns itself with a host of issues, from neighborhood organizing and advocacy to drug abuse and crime prevention to commercial revitalization and development.

The program is free and open to the public.

could see where it was God's call to do that as much as the bible study."

There are approximately 70 children, from nursery school age to eighth graders, enrolled in West Parish's Sunday School program, which is also Knight's responsibility. They have 11 teachers, one supervisor and one music teacher.

Knight says she's satisfied with them all. "I've been pleased with the cooperation of the teachers. When I called them to teach Sunday School, I didn't know who they were, but we have a full contingent of teachers."

In addition to her day-to-day routine, Knight has a few projects in the works. She is planning a series of learning activities for the Sunday School students and a few adult and intergenerational activities as well.

"My goal for the year is to let everyone know that things are running smoothly and that I have exciting plans for the year."

Proposed Commission Would Study Anti-snob Zoning

By Lewis C. Howe

The Massachusetts Legislature has proposed a joint commission to study the state's anti-snob zoning law as a means of dealing with public concern over the comprehensive permit process.

"This is such a big issue right now" said Rep. Susan Tucker (D-Andover), "we need a special commission to study the large amount of bills being filed" on the affordable housing law, which many residents and legislators believe should be repealed or altered.

Under the existing law, communities with fewer than 10 percent of all housing units deemed "affordable" are subject to comprehensive permits, mixed-income housing proposals which often exceed local zoning and density statutes. Seven such proposals have been made in Andover.

The special commission, if approved by the senate and authorized by Governor Dukakis, would decide whether to change the law to give cities and towns more power to reject developers' plans — or to simply strike the law from the books altogether. The House voted to establish the commission last week.

Tucker, who has volunteered to serve on the proposed commission, said in order to be effective, the commission must have input from "representatives, senators, citizens, developers and low-income residents." All anti-snob zoning bills filed would be sent to the commission, she explained, "and they would examine what's wrong with the process."

Tucker will file six bills of her own on November 4 for review by the House during the legislative session to begin in January. The "strongest" of these, she stated, would prevent the state Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) from funding any comprehensive permit that has not been approved by a community. In order to make this bill workable, she noted, "we will have to name one board to have the power" of granting or refusing permission to a developer.

One possible scenario, Tucker speculated, would be to have the local city council or board of selectmen make final recommendations to the state "with the advice and consent of the local housing authority or partnership committee."

Tucker will also introduce bills to cap density of comprehensive permit projects at four times what is allowed by local zoning laws, unless a variance is granted by the local zoning board. Other legislation would deny state appeals to developers who do not negotiate with communities in good faith, and grant breaks to cities and towns that "demonstrate an effort" to provide affordable housing.

Tucker has also proposed limiting the number of comprehensive permits which may be filed in any given community during a period of time, and she would like to see all units in a comprehensive permit project count towards the 10 percent state-mandated affordable housing figure.

"These bills would not allow the state to override the towns" Tucker commented. Citing Andover's Town Meeting vote to take 86 acres of land for affordable housing, she remarked "the state ought not to use the stick" with communities which attempt to provide affordable housing for its residents.

A plethora of bills already filed include legislation to reduce the amount of necessary affordable housing in municipalities from 10 percent to 5 percent, which Tucker said is "an attempt to abolish" the anti-snob law. "Just about everybody has at least 5 percent" she stated.

Stephen Colyer, Andover town physical planner, said "it would likely be more feasible" to amend the comprehensive permit process than to repeal it. "Those bills (to alter the law) would probably stand a better chance," he said.

If the process cannot be changed to give cities and towns more "leverage," Tucker said she would not completely rule out supporting repeal of the law. But, she added, "I'd like to have some hope" that a special commission, if appointed, "would be able to decide" the best course of action to provide affordable housing in Massachusetts.

Danneman Issue Still Alive

Residents Want To Know If Ouster Was Legal

By Lewis C. Howe

Residents who support deposed Andover Housing Partnership Committee member George Danneman, again questioned selectmen on the legality of Danneman's removal from the AHPC at Monday's board meeting.

Selectmen Chairman Gerald Silverman read an opinion from Town Counsel Alfred Daniels concerning the authority of the town manager to appoint and remove members of volunteer committees. Town Manager Kenneth Mahony removed Danneman from the AHPC in September for making statements that were deemed a hindrance to the AHPC's goal of bringing affordable housing to Andover.

"The town manager appoints members to...town boards with the approval of the selectmen" Silverman read. "The above (appointees) may be removed without the involvement of the selectmen." The document also stated the town manager has the authority to determine cause of dismissal, and the dismissed appointee does not have the right to a hearing.

This did not sit well with Debby Moggio, 3 Hidden Road, who said she is "really bothered" by the process. "If somebody is going to be fired for cause, there has to be a reason." Moggio contended Danneman had done nothing to obstruct the work of the AHPC, saying "if you fire someone for being wrong and he hasn't been wrong, he might want to express his side." Otherwise, she added, one person (the town manager) has too much power. "There's no process there," Moggio said, "it's like Kafka's trial."

Silverman responded that Danneman was not "fired," since he was not "hired," but appointed to a committee from which he was removed.

Moggio asked the board whether Danneman was entitled to a hearing to "tell his side," and then inquired whether "you agree with Mr. Mahony that he was trying to thwart the actions of the AHPC. Do you think he was rightfully dismissed?"

"You're out of line," said Silverman, who commented "I will not ask the board members to respond, but speaking for myself, absolutely. I back the town manager 100 percent." Silverman added there were "many reasons" to dismiss Danneman.

Selectman Gail Ralston acknowledged "there can be a shortcoming in this process," and said she had "a few ideas" regarding "how to prevent this from happening in the future," which she will discuss at the Selectmen's work session on November 9.

In other business, the board granted approval for New England Telephone to perform street work on Bailey Road, Dale Street and River Road. The phone company, Silverman said, has finally finished work on other town roads that had been neglected for some time. The town had been holding up subsequent New England Telephone projects until unfinished work had been completed.

"I want to mention," Silverman told Ed Shanley of the phone company, "since we gave you such a hard time before, that I'm very glad to see that throughout the town they (streets) are being repaired and taken care of."

Gifted Kids Need Special Attention

By Lewis C. Howe

Gifted children are also special needs children. To that end, the Andover school department has hired consultant Shirley Perkins to devise a Gifted and Talented program for the town's schools.

"Bright students have special needs," Perkins remarked, "we should do something to address them." The consultant has "done a lot of looking and listening" since arriving in Andover last month, and said she will receive input from parents, teachers, administrators and students before making her final report to the school committee in January.

Perkins was brought in to examine gifted and talented curriculum after many parents repeatedly urged the school committee to develop more programs for bright students. By conducting interviews with school personnel, Perkins said she is able to analyze the strengths and weaknesses of the local school system. "I try to find out what things are already happening," she commented, "and what things should also be happening."

A Gifted and Talented program should "create the best match between the child and the school," the consultant said, adding "there are many schools of thought on how best to achieve this."

One method of teaching gifted children, Perkins explained, is acceleration. This involves advanced-level programs for students who have mastered standard curriculum. Another means of teaching is through individualized learning, in which the child works at special projects targeted to their personal interest.

Perkins said the chosen mode of study should be matched to each student. "Some kids work best alone on projects, while others adapt better to groups," she stated.

Andover Fifth Graders Step Into The Past

By Melissa M. De Meo

Morning class for 27 Sanborn Elementary School fifth graders last Tuesday was a little chilly. But the students didn't seem to mind that much.

For them, it was a chance to get out of the traditional classroom setting and into the Andover Historical Society barn, learning about life in the 1820s by living it a little. Each student assumed the identity of someone who lived in Andover in the 19th century—familiar names like John Locke and Isaac Abbot and not-so-familiar ones like Phoebe Shattuck, who with her husband, Joseph, ran a farm in town.

Historical Society volunteer Toni Rollins, dressed in a loose jacket and straw hat, standing in the barn, wants to know if there are any farmers in the group of six kids sitting in front of her. Nobody has a farmer's name tag, and Rollins didn't win any converts.

Life on a 19th-century farm meant long hours, hard work and constant planning. You never knew if an early frost or insects would down your crop for a year. And the farm that occupied the site where the Historical Society is now wasn't even a commercial farm. It was used to feed Amos Blanchard and his family, who lived there from 1820 to 1850.

"This program interprets that period of time and in particular this house, this family and how they went about their day-to-day business," said Peg Hughes, the society's assistant director.

The six-year-old program gets every fifth grader in Andover's public schools plus St. Augustine's to the Historical Society in a system of rotations every Tuesday and Thursday in October and again in May. The society provides teachers with a slide/tape show as an introduction to the program and suggestions for classroom activities for use afterward.

Sanborn teacher Kathy Iworsley said the supplementary materials are very useful. After the students get back, they get into their family groups and are given an assignment: plan a vacation for your family.

"Then we ask, 'How did your family come to that decision.' And pretty much the father says, 'We're going on vacation.' And they go," Iworsley said. "And they all realize that."

The program is also awareness-raising for the teachers. "I just came from the kitchen, and there especially you realize what you have," Iworsley said.

She said getting out of the classroom also gives her a new perspective on her students. "I see the children in a different light. It surprises me sometimes to see who's listening."

The students were put into five groups that rotated through five stations throughout the Blanchard house and barn. They learned about home and farm life, as well as 19th-century storekeeping and printmaking.

Fifth grader Timmy McGovern, alias printer Abraham Gould, paused to examine the words his group had just printed the old-fashioned way--letter by letter.

"It's pretty good," he said. "This is the shop I own."

Kathy Maxwell, a Historical Society volunteer at the print shop station, said a lot of the kids have had similar experiences at Sturbridge Village. "They really enjoy it," she said.

But it may not be so easy for them to think back a century and a half, according to teacher Iworsley. "It's hard for them to imagine even 10 years ago—that's their life," she said.

Still, Iworsley said it's a good experience for her students if only to help them "appreciate what they have today."

Ben Tilghman examines words he and his classmates printed 1820s style.

OPINION

On Openness

There has been considerable discussion of the open meeting law lately, particularly between the planning board and members of the League of Women Voters.

A week ago, Chairman Michael Houghton of the planning board was particularly vocal with regards to league claims that some planning board meetings were held despite not being properly posted in advance.

Houghton considered some of the reaction by league members and others in the community to be adversarial.

In a letter, appearing in the Public Forum of the TOWNSMAN this week, Jean Salazar, president of the league, points out that the group questioned not only planning board action with regard to open meeting law compliance but subcommittees of town boards as well.

The Essex County District Attorney's office informed the league that based on information provided, any municipal group meeting in any capacity must post their meetings in compliance with the open meeting law.

This is as it should be.

The league goes on to state that no legal action has been taken to enforce compliance or determine if any municipal board has been in violation. Further, the league states, there is no intent to pursue the matter through legal channels.

Intent would seem to be simply to ensure that municipal bodies comply with the intent and meaning of the open meeting law.

Such action is to be applauded.

Andover has come a long way from the days when the principal information coming from a selectmen's meeting was the approval of new street light locations or utility excavation permits.

Principal business in those days was done behind closed doors or over telephones or on the street.

Police logs were edited prior to being given to the media.

These practices were not peculiar to Andover alone, but rampant, particularly in affluent communities, where so-called public servants felt that municipal business should be conducted with an eye on the town's image in the forefront.

It was due to such practice that the public, and newspaper organizations particularly, focused on the enactment of open meeting laws, refining them from time to time and constantly aware of legislative efforts to weaken them.

It is, unfortunately, a constant vigil.

Thus, it is pleasing to see a group such as the League of Women Voters also vigilant and insistant on compliance with the law in order that the public has constant access to the process through which their government is run.

We can also sympathize with Mr. Houghton's fears that implications can be drawn from a constant insistence on open meeting law compliance. There is considerable truth in the fact that these board members are unpaid and spend countless hours volunteering their time to proper conduct of community business.

But, we feel that there is no intent to infer anything other than obeying the law and keeping all meetings open and eligible for public attendance and observation.

It is something which was gained through considerable effort over a long period of time and meant to be preserved.

Just A Thought

By Bob Finneran

Just noticing that this is a particularly nice time of year with the fall foliage in nearly-full brilliance.

But those leaves which put on such a magnificent display soon turn out to be pestiferous, bringing out rakes, bags, etc., for proper disposal.

And, that little reddish, yellow oak leaf which glistened only a few days ago will soon find its way underneath the windshield wiper of the car and swipe across the line of vision as soon as the things are turned on in a rain storm.

Can't burn the things anymore. Even though it's environmentally unsound, the aroma from burning leaves was always a welcome seasonal sign. Think somtimes we're a little too environment and protection conscious. Can remember swiping chips off ice wagons as a youngster and eating the stuff, wood slivers and all, and to the best of my knowledge I'm still healthy.

Still on the subject of leaves, don't like to mention this, but over in North Andover we can't drink the water, but starting soon, the town will be patrolling the streets picking up the mounds of leaves raked curbside by residents.

Andover once had this service, but then Prop 2½ came along and we found that as good an excuse as any to drop the service and increase taxes at the same time.

About the only thing the town hasn't applied a user fee to so far is the public safety department. Maybe they'll institute a by-appointment-only policy or have unlisted phone numbers to conserve finances.

Andover is a very hospitable community. Instituted a hotel-motel excise tax a few years ago in an effort to bolster municipal revenue.

A report by the state Department of Revenue indicates that Andover derived 0.67 per cent of its budget this past year from this new-found source of revenue. Translated that means the we nailed every visitor to our borders who stayed in one of our motels for a total of $268,664. That's putting the welcome mat out certainly.

It's going to be nice to be a part of the renewed rivalry between Andover and North Andover on the gridiron on Nov. 21. It was for years the annual Thanksgiving Day rivalry between the two towns, and even though Andover predominated in the series, it was always enjoyable. There will be a problem, however, since the game will be at Lovely field, rather than the Playstead, where do the guys go at half-time for conversation and pallet quenching with no baseball stands to resort to?

Ever have an enjoyable evening turn sour at the end?

Last Friday night, after taking in the Al Martino, Anna Maria Alberghetti concert at the Collins Center, returned home to be held at bay for about 20 minutes by a skunk in the driveway.

Those critters sure know their powers, because this white-striped excuse for the creation of odor-eaters just perambulated the driveway and yard to its heart's content until it got good and ready to leave.

Needless to say I went along with the gag.

The Andover Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a Horribles Parade Halloween night.

Rogers Brook bids were advertised Tuesday in Boston papers, and will be opened at the Division of Waterways on Nashua St., Boston, November 6.

School children walking on Lovejoy Road may have some relief this winter. Town Manager Thomas E. Duff has directed the highway department to prepare sidewalk areas, which can be plowed during the winter.

Rafael Rodriguez, now at 95 Maple Ave., said he chose freedom over remaining in Cuba. Of his last months in Cuba, Mr. Rodriguez vividly remembers the military build-up taking place in his own city and province of Camaguey. An airport was constructed to handle MIG jets from Russia.

10 Years Ago — October 1977

Andover's dogs can remain relatively free following town meeting action Monday night which approved a more liberal leash law.

An "equalized value" review of the town, with a price tag of $140,000, was rejected again by town meeting but by a closer margin than at the annual town meeting last May.

Dirty Andover

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

The TOWNSMAN is my last resort. Perhaps it should have been my first.

Two years ago I spent three weeks in Scotland and saw not one piece of trash. I did see men with brooms sweeping the sidewalk daily. When I returned to Andover, I saw the same box of French fries scattered under a bench on the main street that had been there when I left. I saw a very dirty Andover

I wrote to the town manager—twice. I received no response. I wrote to the Chamber of Commerce. I was told that shop owners are responsible for keeping their secion of sidewalk clean. (The Andover Bank and Macartney's do an excellent job). I spoke with individual shop owners. Many were unaware of their responsibility.

Two weeks go I wrote to the town manager and told him I had been regularly cleaning in front of the old town hall and asked if the town could do the cleaning instead of me. To date I have had no response.

Am I too old-fashioned in thinking that an affluent town like Andover might have some civic pride? Even in London the streets are swept after the shops close. In fact, all over England there are contests to determine which town is the neatest and cleanest. Are we Americans too "sophisticated" for such goings-on? Could it be possible that Andover cannot afford to have clean streets?

If, after reading this letter, you pick up just one piece of trash, Andover will look 75 percent better. There is no excuse whatsoever for the littered streets and parks of Andover.

Bad Trend

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

When teenagers damage people's mailboxes and drive a car onto people's lawns, it is acting out behavior. They are really saying: "There is nothing to do in this town on a weekend evening, there is no place to go. Give me some direction."

I have lived in this town for 14 years. From time to time different groups have tried or talked about "a place" for teens to gather, listen to music, dance, etc. I have not seen any program sustained.

If, when teenagers tell their parent that they're going out, the parent asked where, to do what and with whom, it would help the teenager and parent come to grips realistically with the available options. It's also saying I care about you.

I am sorry that Lt. Enos called these teenagers troublemakers. However, he is correct in stating that they don't realize the seriousness of the crime.

As parents and residents of this town, we need to help these teenagers get through adolescence in a positive way, to become responsible adults.

I truly hope that we do not sit back and let your headline on page 104 of last week's Andover Townsman "Police Say Increase In Vandalism May Be Growing Trend In Town" come to fruition. We would surely be letting these young, vulnerable people down.

Posting Meetings

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

It has been a widespread practice in Andover that subcommittees of standing town boards and committees do not post their meetings as required by the Open Meeting Law. For the past several months the League of Women Voters has been speaking with appropriate town officials who have responded that it was not clear to them that meetings of subcommittees are covered by that law.

The league asked for and received a statement from the office of the Essex County District Attorney indicating that not posting meetings of subcommittees is a "fundamental and substantial violation" of the Open Meeting Law.

No legal action was taken against any town board or committee by the league nor is any such action planned.

Last season's Andover PeeWee A hockey team reassembled this past weekend to complete a hockey exchange with Terrebonne Park of Montreal, Quebec. The teams played even in two games last spring in Canada. Representing Andover were goalie Mike Daley, defensemen Todd Allard, John Constantine, Brendan Finneran, Bob Sheehan and Mike Walsh, forwards Jay Coburn, Sean Darwin, Danny Feeley, Don Fraser, Joe Liguori, Pete O'Shea, Bill Owens, Chris Pothier and Ed Thistle.

Game one ended in a 3-3 tie. Andover led throughout the contest on goals by Darwin (assisted by Thistle), Owens (assisted by O'Shea and Pothier) and Fraser (assisted by Walsh and Allard). Terrebonne Park tied it with only minutes to play.

Andover won the second game 3-2, scoring single goals in each period: Pothier (Walsh), Owens (Feeley) and Fraser. Terrebonne Park finally put it together and scored two goals in the last 1:16.

Arsenault Leads Warriors Over Methuen

By Lewis C. Howe

Last Friday night at about 6:15, the Methuen High Rangers football team sprinted onto Eugene Lovely Field to begin their pre-game warmups. There was a lot of screaming and whooping going on as the visitors stampeded past the Andover squad, which had taken the field minutes earlier for calisthenics. Mike Marinaro, the Golden Warriors' standout tackle, repeated the same words to his teammates. "Remember last year, guys, c'mon, let's remember last year."

Less than an hour later, Andover halfback Devon Arsenault took a handoff from Brandon McCue on the first play from scrimmage, made a quick cut left, spun away from one tackler and rambled 65 yards for a touchdown. Andy Weiner's (7-8 PATs for the season) kick was on target and the Warriors were on their way to gaining revenge for last year's 20-8 loss to Methuen.

"That was a big play" Andover Coach Dick Collins said of Arsenault's run. "Sometimes getting a quick score reacts adversely for you" Collins remarked, "but that wasn't the case this time."

Arsenault's (189 yards on 12 carries) second touchdown of the night, a 53-yard scamper with 1:44 left in the third quarter, accounted for the 21-12 final that gave Andover its third consecutive Merrimack Valley Conference victory. The Warriors will travel to Wilmington (1-5) this Saturday for a 1:30 p.m. contest.

After Arsenault's opening-play tally had stunned the Rangers, Andover mustered a 12-play 88-yard drive to make the score 14-0 with just 46 seconds to play in the first half. John Perry registered his seventh touchdown in three games, scoring on a 5-yard run after catching three passes on the drive to set up a first-and-goal.

Perry was injured slightly when he was met by a host of Ranger defenders at the 15 yard line, and left the game for a play before returning to score the Warriors' second touchdown. "You can tell it was a serious injury" quipped Collins, "John had to leave the field for a play." Perry will be okay for this week's game, Collins added.

Methuen was able to temporarily shift the momentum of the contest with a stunning score of its own. After Dana Miele returned the ensuing kickoff to the Methuen 43, halfback Dan Ford ran 17 yards to the Andover 40, and the second of three personal fouls called against the overzealous Warriors in the game moved the ball to the 25-yard-line with 13 seconds to play.

Following two incompletions, Quarterback Tony Castro (5-19, 96 yards) tossed up a Hail Mary as time expired. The ball was tipped by one Ranger before settling n the hands of Mike Drouin to cut the margin to 14-6. Stefan Kelly stopped Ford's rush for the two-point conversion, momentarily stemming the tide.

Methuen's missed conversion "probably saved us," Collins stated. "It was not as demoralizing to go into the half ahead 14-6 than if it had been 14-8."

Methuen pieced together the night's most impressive drive to open the second half. The visitors marched 58 yards in 17 plays—all on the ground—with Castro finally punching the ball over from the one. The Rangers chewed up 8:38 of playing time on the drive, and trailed by just two points after Derek Robillard was stopped shy of the goal line on the two-point rush attempt.

On their next possession, the Warriors were faced with a third-and-five from their own 37 when McCue found Perry for 10 yards and a first down to deflate Methuen. Arsenault re-created his first quarter heroics on the next play, and Weiner's PAT kick gave the home team a nine-point lead with 11 minutes remaining.

Collins cited Weiner's kicking as a major factor in the victory. "He made all three of his extra points, and we stopped (Methuen) on both of their conversions." This gave Andover a nine-point lead, allowing the team some breathing room and giving Collins more flexibility down the stretch.

Coach Collins also had praise for his punting unit. "We had been worried about their punt returns. (Punter Steve) Surrette kept the ball away from their best punt returner all night." Surrette averaged 32 yards on four punts, and the punt coverage team held the all-purpose Ford to 14 yards in 3 returns. Ford was nailed for a three-yard loss on one fourth-quarter runback as Jack Dalton provided the hit of the night.

The Rangers refused to go down easily, engineering a 54-yard drive during the early stages of the fourth quarter, but the visitors were unable to score when, on fourth down and 15 from the Andover 19, Castro was stopped at the Warrior nine after a desperation scramble.

Scott Wallace's interception of Castro a few minutes later stifled another Methuen drive, and Andover's defense held once more as time ran out to hand the Rangers their second straight loss.

Andover, now in second place in the MVC, will face a struggling Wilmington squad that was drubbed by Dracut last week, 34-6. Wilmington has scored just 46 points in five games, and receives a good chunk of its offense from 5' 5" running back Dan Sullivan.

"Sullivan's a tough little kid," commented Collins, who added "you can't pay much attention to their record in our league. We'll prepare for them as much as anyone else we play."

With undefeated Chelmsford (who handed Andover their only loss of the season last month) the only obstacle between the Warriors and a share of the conference title, Collins stated "we're definitely still in the hunt."

In the Mediterranean area, umbrellas were initially used as sunshades even though they weighed about 4 lbs. and were made of whale bones and oiled cloth.

Wilkins is a sophomore resident advisor for Martin Luther Hall and a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity.

Booters' Record Climbs To 9-2-3

By Scott Friese

The Andover men's soccer squad raised its record to 9-2-3 with wins over Chelmsford 5-0 and Lawrence 2-0 and a 2-2 tie with St. John's at home last Sunday night under the lights.

The Warriors made it 2-0 against Chelmsford this season with a 5-0 win at home last Wednesday. Senior forward Steve Napolitano turned in a hat trick as Peter Kannam and Billy Martin added one goal a piece. Andover kept control by working a strong passing attack into the game plan. This was evident as Rich Atkinson, Kannam and Napolitano worked a beautiful display of one-touch passing around the motionless Chelmsford defense to result in Napolitano's second goal. Late in the second half Andover made good on the corner kick. Matt Pothier took the kick from the left side, a waist-level kick to the front post. Halfback Martin made a run from the right side, perfectly timed to the near post, and redirected it into the net, sneaking past the post.

Andover won a poorly played game against Lawrence 2-0. Lawrence began the game with nineplayers but built up to speed as the half progressed. The Warriors managed to score only once while playing with extra men as Kannam collected the first of his two goals in the game.

The Warriors were looking for a win against St. John's whom they tied last meeting 0-0. Aggressive play from the opening whistle set the tone for the game with Andover's defense making some key stops deep in their end. Andover jumped in front on an early goal as Tom Ciolfi hustled to knock in a deflected shot, but St. John's tied it up minutes later. Play went back and forth throughout the first half and into the second as St. John's made good on a penalty shot opportunity. Senior goalie Rob Stoltz made the initial save as well as a shot off of the rebound, but Andover was unable to clear the ball and St. John's knocked it in on the third chance making the score 2-1. Stoltz kept Andover in the game, coming up with numerous key saves, until Andover was able to come back late in the second half. The Warriors were awarded a free kick just inside the midfield line. Sophomore defender Bob Nash sent the kick over a pack of defenders straight up the middle. Forward Pothier broke from the pack and, just within the penalty box, headed the ball over the rushing goalie and into the net to tie the score. Andover had numerous opportunities afterward, much for corner kicks, but were unable to covert. Stoltz continued his fine performance, stopping St. John's scoring opportunities.

What to do in the month of October

Hill peatmoss or compost around the base of your roses to protect them from winter damage. Be sure your evergreens are well watered before the ground freezes solid. Protect your garden tools from rust by applying a thin layer of oil.

As heat is turned on in your house you will perhaps find your plants drying out more often or in need of more humidity (by misting). Keep an eye on them. If you'd like to try forcing some bulbs for the early spring, now is the time to start them. Ask us for details.

Remove what's left of your annuals after the frost. As long as they are pest free, etc., put them in your compost pile.

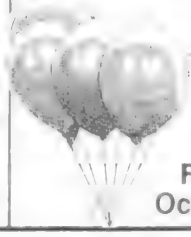

If you expect to receive nursery stock after the ground freezes or will be considering purchasing a live tree this Christmas, dig the holes now. It will be extremely difficult later on.

To get your poinsettias to bloom for Christmas start giving them 14 hours of complete darkness every day. They are sensitive so don't cheat.

To get your Christmas cactus to blossom put them in a location where they get cool evenings (50-55 degrees) and STOP feeding them.

Girls' Varsity Surges Ahead

By Jay Saunders

In the past week Coach Loschi's Lady Warriors put it all together with two impressive wins.

Chelmsford was the first victim as Andover dominated play from the start. Suzanne Gianelly notched the first goal, unassisted, finishing a fine movement down the left wing. Chelmsford was unable to penetrate Andover's midfield and were continuously pressed into defensive retreat. Michela Corkery led a defense that thwarted Chelmsford with quickness to the ball and superb coverage.

Gianelly got her second goal of the night on a pass from Shaleen Cassily. Andover scored its final goal as Kim Heseltine set the play for Lisa Berberian to finish.

The girls travelled to Belmont on Friday to face a team that was among the leaders in the tough Middlesex League. The initial advantage went to the home team as Andover took time to adjust to Belmont's 4-4-2 system of play. The fine goalkeeping by Karen Del Sarto and an obvious desire on the part of the team held Belmont at bay. Andover's defense bought time, playing with depth and coverage to deny the offense effective penetrating runs or passes.

As Coach Loschi adjusted his personnel, the first half evolved into an even battle with Andover owning the territorial advantage. Andover's midfield, anchored by Krissie Carothers, outplayed the home team in the second half and controlled the flow of the game. Kerry Fitzpatrick, playing at right wing, set up the first goal on a cross to Shaleen Cassily who put the ball home to Andover a 1-0 lead. Belmont was unable to respond.

The Andover forwards continued to press with fine passing. Cassily scored her second goal, finishing a sequence initiated by Fizpatrick. Belmont could not mount a serious counterattack. Senior Stephanie Melillo used intelligent passing to maintain offensive pressure.

Coach Najen's junior varsity team had a win and a tie. Jen Sonntag scored on Debbie Donovan's pass and Diane Hevehan made it 2-0 unassisted against Chelmsford. Ann Larsen was outstanding in defense.

Goals went to Debbie Donovan, Jen Sonntag and Kara Slavin in the 3-3 tie against Belmont.

Swimmers Remain Unbeaten

The Andover High School girls' varsity swim team defeated Lawrence 62.5 to 11.5 at Lawrence last Friday, extending their unbeaten string to five.

Co-captain Johanna Hohn, Kate Robb, Tracey Pool and co-captain Lisa Herrmann won the 200 yard medley relay with Dianne Schwarz, Monica Davis, Eszter Vajda and Rebecca Poulo in third.

Lisa Fox won the 200 yard freestyle with freshman Eliza Tilghman third and Sue Garabedian fifth. Erika Suduiko won the individual medley with Robb second in a personal best time and Debbie Brendle in fifth.

Pool led an Andover sweep in the 50 free followed by Karen Pedersen second and Poul third. Pam Boucher captured the 100 fly while Kim Maloney was third and Kristen Schmuhl fourth.

Kristen Hubbel won the 100 free.

Squirt A Team Wins

The Squirt A team raised their Valley League record to 2-1 with a victory over a scrappy Haverhill team. Andover got the first period's only goal when Chris Halecki beat the goalie on a pass from Tim McGovern. Andover went up 2-0 when Scott Munroe backhanded the puck over the goalie's shoulder, McGovern getting his second assist. Haverhill got the next two goals. The game remained tied until, with three minutess to go, Ryan Moynihan scored on a beautiful move to give Andover a 3-2 lead. Munroe and Matt Johnson assisted on the goal. Halecki iced the game by scoring with :51 seconds lef to give Andover a 4-2 victory. Jeff Pothier assisted on the goal. Peter Afarianplayed his best game of the season in goal as he made a number of difficult saves. Strong defensive efforts were turned in by Johnson and Dave Bailey.

West Keeps Rolling

By S. Muffin

The Andover West freshmen football team easily defeated the freshmen from Methuen last Friday by a score of 28-6.

Andover was greeted at the Methuen stadium by signs and banners posted on the visitors' bleachers expressing support for the West team. It was later learned that Andover High Assistant Varsity Coach Bobby Fitzgerald posted these signs to motivate the team to victory.

After West elected to kickoff to start the game, Coach Carney's rejuvinated defense shut down Methuen on successive possessions, forcing them to punt twice.

West's first series of downs was derailed by an interception after Brett Hammond and Craig DerAnnanian made big gains running the ball. However, on their second possession, Matt Perry hit Hammond with a 50-yard pass that Hammond brought down to the two-yard line. DerAnnanian promptly bulled his way into the endzone through a huge hole in the Methuen line created by Joey Marinaro and John Benson. Hammond then kicked his first of four extra points.

After another superb effort by the defense, led by Will Lowry and Sean Veasy, West once again reached pay dirt. This drive was led by the pinpoint passing and scrambling of Perry and great catches by Jeff Foley, Hammond, Joe Iarrobino and the Davis brothers, Chris and Jeff. Hammond got the nod for the touchdown with a sweep around left end. That sweep featured great blocks by Kevin Murphy and Garret Ferris. Hammond's kick for the point after was good.

With two minutes left in the first half, West closed out its early scoring with a beautiful 45-yard touchdown pass from Iarrobino to Jeff Davis. This play was set up by Perry who hit Iarrobino in the flat with a quick pass. Iarrobino faked run and then lofted a perfect spiral to Davis who was streaking down the middle of the field all alone. Hammond once again kicked the conversion point.

West closed its scoring in the third quarter with another typical DerAnnanian blast up the middle. This time he carried only four opponents with him into the endzone instead of the usual six or seven. His effort was the result of successive eight-yard runs by Hammond and a 40-yard pass from Perry to Chris Davis who was knocked out of bounds at the two-yard line.

In the forth quarter newcomer Kevin Ring dazzled the crowd with electrifying runs from the line of scrimmage behind the fine blocking of DerAnnanian, Chris Lembo, Eric Greenstein and Tim Plankey.

West Frosh Notch Number Two

By Amy Burnham

The freshman field hockey team at West Junior High School hosted always tough Georgetown and came away with win number two in the young season. Both teams played shutout ball for the first half with Melissa MacCarty accounting for five saves in the first half and nine overall as she posted her second shutout of the season.

The winning score came off a short corner situation with about four minutes remaining in the second half by Grace Ann Perry on an assist from Amy Burnham.

Julie Streeter did a terrific job as sweep after moving from center halfback and was responsible for breaking up several scoring opportunities. She will also see action at wing with eighth grader Michelle Bailey having a turn as sweep in an effort to utilize her tough defensive play. Freshman Holly Donahue won a starting job as wing based on her continued improved play over the first five games of the season. Mr. Gleason of the physical ed department was elated to hear that one of his girls had cracked the starting lineup. Also starting regularly are Jennifer Enos, Rebecca Goldman and Andrea Biondo.

Next week the team will see action against Methuen, Phillips Academy and Tyngsboro. The team will participate in a clinic on Friday sponsored by the varsity field hockey team.

Squirt B's Play Canadians

In a sequel to last spring's trip to Canada, the Andover Squirt B's played host to 12 boys from the Terrebonne district of Montreal in two games over the weekend. Coach Doug Guittarr reunited his team from last year and saw them skate to well-played 5-0 and 3-0 victories. Phil Smith was sharp in goal, recording his back-to-back shutouts. Jason Loomer led the scoring with three goals in the two games. Greg Shannon had two goals and Marc Escott, Dana DiFiore, Dan Hansberry had one each. Assists were recorded by DiFiore (3), Matt Johnson (2) and Peter Volpe, Mark Pirri, Doug Batchelder and Shannon (one each). Sean Donohue, David Bailey and Tom Felago played strong defense and kept the offensive pressure on.

The games were only part of a fun-filled weekend as the Andover players treated their houseguests to a swim party.

Women &
Pre-Nuptial Agreements
If you are contemplating marriage or remarriage, you may be concerned that you will risk the eventual loss of some or all of your property or other assets in the event of a dissolution of your marriage by death or divorce. You may also be uneasy about raising these concerns with your prospective husband because you do not wish to seem unromantic or greedy. A properly negotiated and drafted pre-nuptial agreement can often address these very genuine concerns. The assistance of a lawyer in the negotiation and drafting process is essential if you wish your agreement to be valid and enforceable at some later time.

PeeWee A's Drop Three

The Andover PeeWee A hockey team dropped three league contests this past week.

Andover lost 8-1 to a strong Danvers team in the Wilmington League. Danny McKew scored the one goal with an assist going to Steve Neal.

Andover's record in the Merrimack College League dropped to 1-2 with losses to Peabody (2-1) and Triton (7-1).

The Andover squad played an excellent game against Peabody but only Neal could dent the strings. McKew drew the assist. Brian Flannagan, Jay Stella, Benjie Ristuccia and Ryan Lynch played strongly. The defense corps, strong all season, features Adam Gurry, Paul Allard, Danny Trede and Brendan Finneran. Goalie Fred Sunderland has turned in several outstanding games.

Flannagan scored his first goal of the young season in the Triton game as he took a pass from McKew and found the corner of the net.

PeeWee B's Checked By Woburn

A hard-checking Woburn III team ended Andover's win streak at two games with a 6-3 victory at Hockeytown Saturday. Woburn moved to a quick 2-0 lead in the first period. Their first goal came on an Andover line change and the second on a breakaway that beat goalie Phil Smith. Ritchie Enos, assisted by Jason Loomer, and Mike Lombard, unassisted, scored in the second period around another score by Woburn to end the period 3-2. Woburns' body game took its toll against the smaller Andover team in the third period as they swarmed all over the Andover defense to go up 5-2 before Lombard scored his second goal late in the period with an assist to Darrin Cianci.

Gifted Kids

Most Gifted and Talented programs, she continued, are "rather piecemeal," and combine many educational philosophies contingent upon what gets the best results.

Often, the consultant pointed out, "giftedness" in a child can be discovered by improving standard curriculum. "If (a teacher) begins doing creative writing, you may discover a child who is a gifted writer that you would not have noticed had the class not been doing creative writing." The integration of computers into the Andover schools may aid in discovering students with "exceptional abilities in computers and programming," she added.

Many students who are not considered generally gifted may be outstanding in one or more specific areas, Perkins said. "It used to be believed there was a type of 'general giftedness' that was discovered through testing" she commented. "New theories show a number of types of giftedness in any number of areas."

Constant research and discovery, Perkins remarked, is what "makes this such an exciting field of study." Educators, she said, are "constantly and pleasantly surprised" at the abilities of children placed in gifted programs.

In addition to finding challenges for students, Perkins continued, bright students create challenges for the educator. "Gifted students create more demands on the school system," she explained. "If you do a good job with bright students, you increase the distance between the child and the (regular) curriculum. The regular program becomes less effective for the gifted child."

Perkins related one instance she had encountered during her tenure as a consultant in Tampa, Fla. "The third grade class had a summer reading list," she mused. "When the teacher went around the room asking the kids what they had read over the summer, one boy responded 'Megatrends.' What do you do with a kid like that?"

While this is an unusual case, the consultant said "we do find many kids who can and do go beyond the usual school program." Results are often difficult to objectively measure, she stated. "What a child learns in a Gifted and Talented program usually manifests itself in later life."

Perkins' report will focus mainly on the elementary schools, with a preliminary draft due in November.

Her actions in areas such as local aid, insurance, county jails and state tax policy have benefitted Massachusetts communities," said MMA Acting Executive Director William A. Kennedy.

Marshall Takes Ski Honors

Jeff R. Marshall of Andover has won honors in the nationwide Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR racing program. He placed sixth in Massachusetts in the four-and-under year-old category.

"Jeff can take great pride in being ranked sixth in Massachusetts in his age class. It's no small achievement for a young recreational racer," said NASTAR commissioner and former U.S. Ski Team coach Bob Beattie. "Especially in this Olympic year, it's important to recognize and encourage the efforts of our promising athletes."

Marshall earned his season-best 118 handicap while racing at Waterville Valley, N.H. He is the son of John and Karen Marshall. His brothers, Alex and Andrew, race for the Waterville Valley ski team.

The Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR program ranks the top 10 boys and girls in six age categories in each of 43 states. Racers are ranked according to their single best NASTAR handicap earned last season.

For the first time this winter, U.S. ski team members will be setting NASTAR's national standards so young skiers can now compare their handicaps to their favorite U.S. Olympic racer.

Last season more than 100,000 youths competed in Coca-Cola Jr. NASTAR at 150 ski areas nationwide in the 4 and under, 5-6, 7-9, 10-12, 13-15 and 16-18 age categories.

Scholar-In-Residence

Temple Emanuel of Andover announces the forthcoming Scholar-In-Residence Weekend takes place Friday, Oct. 23, Saturday, Oct. 24, and Sunday, Oct. 25. Professor Lawrence Hoffman is this year's Scholar-In-Residence.

Dr. Hoffman is a professor of liturgy at Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion in New York City and a visiting professor at the University of Notre Dame. He travels widely and is a popular lecturer throughout the United States. Hoffman is the author of numerous articles and five books, many of which have been translated into foreign languages.

As part of the Scholar-In-Residence Weekend, Temple Emanuel will sponsor a clergy institute for the clergy of this area on Friday starting at 9:30 a.m. The subject for discussion will be "Symbols of Salvation in the Passover Haggadah. "This is a two-part presentation featuring a morning lecture on "Unleavened Bread as a Symbol of Salvation in the Time of Jesus." There will be discussion and a second presentation over lunch entitled "The Passover Experience through History: Salvation in Every Age." The Temple Emanuel Sisterhood will serve luncheon.

Sabbath evening services will begin at 8:15 p.m. Hoffman will speak about "An Inside Look at a Jewish Identity in the Making: Are we on the Brink of a Golden Age?"

"The New Spirituality: Looking for God in Andover, Massachusetts" is the topic for discussion at the Sunday session at 10 a.m. There will be time for give and take before the session concludes.

Hoffman's presence for the Scholar-In-Residence Weekend is made possible through the Benjamin Russem Scholar-In-Residence Fund and the David Shack Memorial Lectureship Fund.

South African Priest To Preach At Christ Church

The Rev. Patrick Jacobs, rector of St. Luke's Church, Albertina, will be the preacher at the 9 a.m. and 11:15 a.m. services at Christ Church this Sunday. He will also speak at the forum held between the services.

The Rev. Jacobs, his wife, Esther, and their four-month-old daughter, Abigail, have been the guests of Christ Church, Andover, and Grace Church, Lawrence, for the past month. The Jacobs are from a parish which includes 14 outstations, chapel congregations that are served by the clergy of St. Luke's Church. Most of his parishioners are living below the "breadline." Thirty percent are farm laborers who have no labor union, leaving them unprotected from long hours, lowpay and the "tot-system" in which laborers are compensated in liquor for low wages.

St. Luke's Church is a part of the Diocese of George which Jacobs reports is "located in probably the most beautiful part of the country" but in an area "terribly exploited by the apartheid system of separation which leaves the best, the most beautiful, for the enjoyment of whites only."

While in the United States, Jacobs is working on the development of an adventure in Opportunity School and Diocesan Training Center at Melkhoutfontein (Afrikaans for Milkwood Fountain).

The public is encouraged to attend

Chef Larry Lawson prepares veal on the open hearth.

Kelley's Seafood & Steakhouse:

Of course you've been to Kelley's Seafood & Steakhouse, but have you been there recently?

Changes have taken place and will continue to take place, under the direction of restaurant consultant and now chef of Kelley's Seafood & Steakhouse, Larry Lawson.

Larry, who was chef at "Backstreet" in Andover for seven and one half years, has brought his expertise and talents to Kelley's Seafood & Steakhouse, located at 178 Main St., North Reading.

Under his watchful eye, Kelley's Seafood & Steakhouse is re-vamping. Behind the scenes, new kitchen equipment and freezers have been purchased. Preparation areas have been extended, equipped, re-organized and a thorough steam cleaning of the kitchen has taken place. The kitchen crew is receiving sanitation training, assuring you, the patron, of food from an emaculate kitchen.

Kelley's Seafood & Steakhouse will continue to serve a wide variety of favorites from their Open Hearth menu, as well as, Deep Sea Specialties. However, Chef Lawson has introduced a few of his specialties on the luncheon menu and shortly will re-vamp the entire luncheon and dinner menus.

A few "creations" he has introduced are Haddock Scampi, Bar-B-Q Baby Back Ribs, a very special Veal Parmesan, Barbecued Beef Tips, Filet Mignon, his own style of Surf & Turf and Lobster delights to satisfy every appetite.

So bring your friends, business clients and the family to Kelley's Seafood & Steakhouse at 178 Main St., North Reading and get a taste of what's new! Then you'll understand why, this change is definately for the better. Telephone 664-2103. All major credit ards are accepted.

DRY OUT THAT BASEMENT!

If you're a typical househunter, you're likely to eliminate a prospective home, even one you really like, if the basement has water stains on the walls or floors and smells like mildew. Before you do, however, you might want to get an expert's opinion to determine if the water problems can be solved.

Often, a basement can be dried out fairly easily. Maybe a new set of gutters, repairs to a plugged up outdoor drain, or simple regrading of soil around the foundation will solve the problem. A professional home inspector can give you an idea of the cause of the damp basement. He might also give you some idea of how much you will have to pay to waterproof. If the house is priced at top dollar, you might consider negotiating with the sellers, asking them to share in repair costs, especially if your alternative is to make no offer at all. If, on the other hand, the house is a "fixer upper" and priced accordingly, you could get an excellent value that more timid buyers passed up.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling a home, talk to the professionals at Realty USA / Schruender Real Estate. Come by our offices at 73 Chickering Road, North Andover or call us at 685-5000.

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

QUESTION: What effect does the latest Tax Reform Act have on capital gains tax when I sell my home?

ANSWER: One of the biggest changes introduced by the Tax Reform Act is the elimination of the tax-favored treatment of net long-term capital gains. It did away with the 60 percent exclusion of capital gains (profit on property held more than six months). Starting in 1987, all capital gains are treated like ordinary income. Under the old law, the top rate was only 20% (i.e. 40% of the net long term gain subject to the top marginal rate of 50%). For 1987, the transitional year, the top rate is 28% even though some ordinary income is taxed as high as 38½%.

However, on the bright side, homesellers can continue to avoid current tax on a sale if they spend the proceeds on another primary home within two years before or after the sale. Also, if the homeseller is over age 55, he still has a one-time tax exclusion on the first $125,000 of sale profit whether or not be replaces the home.

TRUTH IN LENDING

Shopping for a mortgage was not always as straightforward as it is today. Before the introduction of truth-in-lending legislation, there was no commonly used definition of the term "interest rate." That is why federal and state governments began regulating the terminology of the lending process. It was not until 1969 that the Federal Reserve Board prompted implementation of truth-in-lending legislation. At that time, "annual percentage rate" (APR) became a useful term in mortgage financing advertisements. APR is defined as "a measure of the cost of credit, expressed as a yearly rate." With this tool and others, borrowers now have some realistic way of comparing the borrowing costs

Given todays economic conditions financing a home is even more complicated than ever before. Various types of "creative financing are now available and it takes a professional like those of us at CENTURY 21 SHAWSHEEN REALTY, INC. to sort the options out for the average buyer. You'll find us at 8-10 Haverhill St., 470-3873. We are open daily, evenings and weekends.

Selectmen

Brookside.

The ZBA is in the process of negotiating with Winn on the issue, and Dalton expressed concern any action by selectmen would "undermine the ZBA's position" in negotiations. "By taking a position, would we be strengthening someone's hand?" Dalton asked.

Selectman Charles Wesson suggested tabling Silverman's motion, and Dalton commented, "I'd rather have the ZBA have the time it needs to bring the number of units into the realm it wants."

Chris Haynes, a member of the AHPC, objected to Dalton's statements, saying the committee's vote to allow 150 units "was a hard-fought compromise," and he noted "to take (Brookside) out of the funding cycle would be stalling the project for three months."

Dalton countered that developers "expect these kinds of delays," and added while he was "sympathetic" to Winn, "I don't see any reason to effectively undercut the ZBA for the convenience of the developer."

Haynes then questioned whether the AHPC should rush to make recommendations on other comprehensive permit proposals if the selectmen would not convey their decisions to the state. Dalton answered "just because we're delaying answ[illegible] cycle on this doesn't mean the (funding) [illegible] all votes." The selectman pointed out both the AHPC and the ZBA had spent "long hours" reviewing the proposal, and deserve the chance to complete their work.

Wesson dissented from Dalton momentarily, saying "I don't see how we're hindering the ZBA by passing this on if it says "not to exceed 150," while Dalton urged caution from the board, saying a three month delay is "part of the business" and would not adversely affect the development of affordable housing.

Haynes interjected, saying rising interest rates and an unstable stock market could change everything in three months. "To delay this could kill it (Brookside) on the vine" he stated.

Selectman William Downs attempted to diffuse the budding controversy, praising the AHPC for having "done a fine job. This is the first time we've had some cohesiveness on this," he said, referring to relations between the AHPC, the ZBA, the selectmen and developers.

Chris Holmes, 14 Whispering Pines Lane, addressed the board next, cautioning the selectmen not to act in haste. "This is very precedent-setting," she said. "The numbers (of units) are different between the AHPC and ZBA." The ZBA, she said, would indeed be "undercut in negotiations" if it was implied that the town had approved 150 units.

Dalton then motioned to table Silverman's motion to forward the AHPC's letter to the state. Dalton, Wesson and Gail Ralston voted to table the issue, Silverman and Downs were opposed.

After the 3-2 vote, Ralston commented "I am concerned about the numbers," but she added "Winn is a developer the AHPC has said the town can work with." Wesson drew applause from the audience when he said "many people and boards are not getting along in town," and that in a precedent-setting situation, "if we're going to make a mistake, let's make it on the conservative side."

Silverman was less positive in his remarks. "We just gave the AHPC a kick in the pants," he said.

Winn plans to seek MHFA funding next month. "This could hurt their credibility," commented Stephen Colyer, town physical planner. "The state will want to see some evidence of support (for the project) from the town, and they won't have it."

Park Street

use, and (DeSalvo) was right to tell them they had to go to the planning board. We should uphold his decision."

Board member Roger Collins agreed with Griswold, saying "there was a restaurant in the alleys, but it was incidental" to the building's main use.

"Absolutely. It was definitely an accessory use" said Griswold, who concluded the 15-minute deliberation by remarking "it seems to me we need to uphold the building inspector's decision. Park Street should go to the planning board and talk to them about parking."

Under the bylaw's provisions, the developer will have to provide 87 parking spaces for the retail shops it plans to house at the 32-34 Park St. site. Twelve parking spaces currently exist, and Park Street Atty. Reginald Marden has said "in order to comply with this, part of the building would have to be torn down."

Marden told the ZBA October 1 DeSalvo had made an improper interpretation of the 1985 parking bylaw, commenting "if the bylaw is interpreted to render our property unusable, or requires part of the building to be torn down, then I believe it is not legal."

Hazardous Waste Collection Planned

The towns of Andover and North Andover will combine resources next spring to tackle the persistent problem of collection and diposal of household hazardous waste. During a pilot project initiated by the towns in October 1986, more than 300 households participated by disposing of more than 2,000 containers of waste oil, pesticides, solvents and various other corrosives and hazardous household products.

"We have had numerous requests to repeat this most successful program," said Everett Penney, Andover's health director. "Just last week we received notification that the State Department of Environmental Management will renew the grant program which funds this important public health project. We anticipate submitting a joint proposal for a regional program to be run next spring, probably in April," he concluded after talking with North Andover Fire Chief Bill Dolan. Penney stressed that residents should set aside and properly store these materials until spring and be particularly cautious about not putting them into the regular weekly trash collection.
